

45 Years Before the Public. THE GENUINE Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia, and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

ACUTE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking quinine.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar-coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression, McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by FLEMING BROS., Pittsburg, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the same McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

SOMETHING NOT ON THE BILLS.

The following extract from a private letter written by a friend in Nashville, tells of one of the incidents of the Nashville democratic convention, which the papers have not fully reported. It was written the day after the convention adjourned:

You have no doubt read the full proceedings of the democratic convention here, as reported in the American. It was noisy and turbulent from the beginning—more so than any convention held here for ten years. The climax was reached, however, last night. In response to a serene, Judge John V. Wright made a sensible, conciliatory speech from the rotunda of the Maxwell house, which was filled to hear him. After he had finished, several speakers followed, among them Col. A. S. Colyar, who spoke of Wilson and Savage, who had, in taking the $5,000 as new issue lawyers for the state, acted contrary to their doctrine, that every appropriation should be submitted to the people, etc., and also contrary to the constitution in taking the fee after they had been the fathers of it, etc. He spoke of it as a public act of Mr. S. F. Wilson, the candidate of the repudiating wing of the democracy for governor.

When Colyar finished, a good many of the spectators (mostly boys) called for Savage, who was seen in the gallery of the rotunda, not far from Colyar. He began by saying that he was not a repudiator; that he and Colyar were upon the same platform a few years ago; now he had been deserted by Colyar; that Colyar had been on all sides of every question; and from these points he took up Colyar's private character and blackguarding him for not paying his debts, for being afraid to meet him on the stump, and boasted that he could put his feet upon the neck of Colyar, Bailey and other democratic leaders, if they would only meet him in public debate before the people. The excitement increased all the time Savage was speaking, and as Colyar sat in full view of the crowd, all expected a rejoinder.

Savage was repeatedly applauded, but talked so long that the crowd got tired of him and began to call for Colyar so loud that he desisted with this remark: "Boys I enjoy this. You did not know the treat you were inviting me to when I was called out, but I knew it all the time." Colyar's rejoinder was most crushing, scathing and triumphant. The terrible words fell with great force as he depicted Savage in his private life, as a gambler and bully, and one who had done much to lead the voters of the state into repudiation. He impressed one as if he was only telling a little of what he knew, remarking that the presence of some ladies and a sense of decency compelled him to refrain from saying many things. Downlow in his best days never gave a man a worse tongue-lashing than Colyar did Savage. The applause was sometimes almost deafening. He was frequently interrupted by cheering for five minutes at a time. Savage's friends who were present tried to yell him down repeatedly, but did not succeed. When he had finished the crowd became perfectly wild and uncontrollable and refused to hear Savage, although some called for him.

Savage took his stand and determined to speak. Mr. Chapin, the manager of the Maxwell House, had to bring up the police and turn out the lights, before Savage would leave his position. He then adjourned to the corner of the street and spoke for fifteen minutes from a dry-goods box to the crowd, but was evidently whipped badly.

The occasion was one of the most exciting I ever knew of, and will hardly be forgotten. Public sentiment is all with Colyar, who was forced to take the position he did; and all agree that Savage only received what he long richly deserved. The work of last night makes the split in the democracy one that will not be bridged during this canvass, and will make them very bitter towards each other—all of which means Hawkins as governor.

An Exciting Chase.

[Little Rock Gazette.]

Yesterday morning a man walked hurriedly from the police court alley, crossed the street and began running. Officer Adams threw up his head and looked. The man didn't look back—ran faster. Then Adams started. He ran down an alley, rattling old cans and kicking up old straw hats.

"Here he goes," yelled a crowd. "Feed him!" shouted the officer. "What do you want with me?" he said.

"Come on back here; thought you were pretty sharp, didn't you? Needn't think you can get away from me."

The man didn't say anything more, but turned and came back. His gait was so hurried that the officer could hardly keep up with him. He was like the average Texas immigrant—eager to go and anxious to get back. The police followed his victim to the kitchen of Burns restaurant. Then there went up a laugh that drowned the hiss of frying meat. Burns fell over on a table, struck himself back of the head with a beef liver and yelled. Mrs. Burns laughed till she started off in ebullient emotion flowed from her face. The victim's face retained its dark expression, and with a gloomy shake of the head, he began piling prison food into a tin pan.

"What's the matter?" asked Adams. "Why," said Burns, "I sent that fellow down town after a hama. I told him to run."

"And I did run," said the gloomy veteran. "A fellow can't show any signs of industry in this town. If he walks along slowly they call him a vagrant, and if he runs they arrest him."

Adams face looked as black as the fly-leet of an old electric spelling book. "I brought him back, anyway," he consolingly remarked, and went out on the street to chase the next industrious man.

Moral—"Go slow."

CHRONIC Looseness of the Bowels results from imperfect digestion, and this again from stomachic irregularities and interruptions. The cause lies in the torpidity of the Liver, and the cure is, take Simmons Liver Regulator, to aid digestion, to stimulate the dull and sluggish Liver, and to regulate the bowels.

"For twenty months I was afflicted with Diarrhea. Numbers of physicians prescribing for me missed my case—their medicine, mostly astringent, aggravating my condition. I was advised to use the Simmons Liver Regulator. This medicine soon indicated the proper diagnosis—an impure matter, secreted from a disordered Liver, and, causing the passage of the bowels, irritated and inflamed to a diseased condition. In a few weeks the medicine corrected it. I was restored to perfect health, and have remained so over two years, no symptoms having returned. I use it in my family as a specific for all disorders originating in disordered Liver."

Personal.

Capt. H. S. Chamberlain and family, of Chattanooga, who have been stopping over in the city on their return from a visit to Eastern summer resorts, went down home yesterday.

Rev. Dr. David Sullins, recently elected president of Emory and Henry college, Va., accompanied by his wife, arrived in the city on yesterday's noon train to visit relatives and friends, and are guests of Judge J. F. Lewis.

Rev. E. E. Hoos, of Martha Washington college, Va., spent a few hours in the city yesterday, and went down on the western-bound train.

Prof. Eben Alexander, of the University of Tennessee, and family, have gone for a visit to Newark, N. J., the home of Mrs. Alexander's father.

Mr. D. L. Ford, salesman for L. G. Miller's saddlery establishment, has returned home from a trip to Virginia, very much improved in health.

Mr. Richard Gaut has returned from a pleasant stay of a few weeks at White Cliff springs and Athens.

Meers, H. H. Brandon and E. G. Young returned on yesterday's noon train from Yellow springs, where they spent a few days very pleasantly.

Misses Alice and Lizzie Bomar went down to Loudon yesterday to visit friends and relatives for a few days.

Mr. Wm. M. Lindsay, gauger in the U. S. internal revenue service, came on yesterday evening from Beaton, Polk county, where he has been located for some time.

Mr. M. O. French, of the revenue service, with headquarters in the upper counties, who has been spending some days in the city, went up on yesterday evening's train.

Mr. John G. Rushing, of Charleston, S. C., an extensive poultry and commission dealer, arrived in the city yesterday evening.

Rev. Dr. Thos. W. Humes, president of the University, has returned from spending the vacation in Virginia.

Rev. J. A. Ruble and family have returned from spending the summer very pleasantly at Wear's valley, Sevier county.

Room at Tate's.

As the time of stay of many guests at Tate's is now expiring, quite a number of very desirable rooms are vacated, and all who now arrive at Tate's find ample accommodations.

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ———, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

New York Baptist Weekly.

Colored S. S. Convention.

August 16, 1887.

MR. EDITOR: Pursuant to a call by Rev. W. H. Ferguson, chairman, and W. P. Golden, general superintendent of the district, a Sunday school convention met at Cedar Bluff on the 12th inst. Rev. Jno. Oliphant, of Knoxville, was chosen chairman and W. P. Golden, secretary. Quite a number of delegates were present, representing Sunday schools in Knox, Sevier, Blount and Loudon counties. The reports from these various schools were interesting and instructive. Many interesting topics were discussed, among which were, "Who should teach?" "How to make the Sunday school interesting?" &c. Bishop E. T. Jones, of the A. M. Z. church, Rev. W. H. Ferguson, of Knoxville, W. H. Franklin, of Shiloh Presbyterian Sunday school, Knoxville, and others, took an active part, presenting many useful and valuable suggestions. It is due to be said, that the singing furnished by the Cedar Bluff Sunday school could not be excelled by the schools of Knoxville. Their selection of songs were the latest and most choice, and the time observed, the rendering of the various parts, the exquisite harmony and melody of their voices, surpasses anything that I have heard in a rural school, and plainly indicates that they had had careful and correct training in music.

On the Sabbath the Lord's supper was administered and able sermons were preached by Bishop Jones and Rev. W. H. Ferguson. All the exercises were well attended, and the Sunday school convention universally pronounced a grand success. It even exceeded our expectations.

A DELEGATE.

Candidate for Floater.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the announcement of Mr. Geo. M. Callen as a candidate for Joint representative from the counties of Knox and Anderson, subject to the republican convention. Mr. Callen is a young man of excellent traits of character, honorable and reliable. He is a graduate of the East Tennessee Wesleyan University, at Athens, is well informed and possesses the capabilities requisite for a true and faithful representative of the people of these counties.

Caroline Jones, of Columbia, Pa., says: "Send me one dollar's worth of Tut's Pills. I find them to be the best medicine I ever tried. My acquaintances have fallen in love with them, and desire to have them. You have conferred a great blessing upon thousands of suffering females."

Customer—"Why are 'Malt Bitters' so popular?"

Druggist—"Because, as a Food Medicine, they enrich the blood, harden the muscles, quiet the nerves, perfect digestion."

Madame Foy Corsets, at Dunbar's.

Sells Brothers' Great Show Coming.

Col. T. R. Toole, the clever advance agent of Sells Brothers' millionaire confederation of stupendous railroad shows, one of the greatest and most extensive shows on the globe, is in the city, accompanied by his wife, and has rooms at the Albin House. Col. Toole is making preliminary arrangements for the appearance of this mammoth exhibition of wonders in our city on Friday, October 1st, which date will be looked forward to with much delight.

The Sells Brothers have a show that is all passed and reactions, possessing many new features. One redeeming trait is the fact that it tolerates no camp followers, rents no privileges, permits no peddling inside, calls upon the authorities to help protect the public from sharpers, is managed in person by its reputable and responsible proprietors and does exactly what it agrees to do in every respect.

In this issue will be found the very extensive advertisement of the show, in which are set forth in detail all the facts, and to which we invite attention.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cup; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. Picnic in the Country.

EDITOR CHRONICLE: I had the pleasure to-day of attending the Sunday-school picnic at Thurman's school house, in the 13th district. By the way, these people deserve praise for the enterprise and energy shown in building a good house, and more praise for establishing a good Sunday-school, with Mr. J. M. Kirby at its head.

The morning was clear, beautiful and bracing. The writer was on the ground early, but pretty soon the young people, with parents and friends, began to gather in, till we had quite a large audience. The good people had erected a stand and seats in the grove, with a beautiful evergreen arch and bouquets ornamenting the stand, while the flag of our country streamed over all.

The exercises were introduced by some good singing, and by a fervent prayer by A. T. Cottrell, Esq., for the good of the Sunday-school, the children, and for our country. Esq. Conner being present, was called upon and made a short talk on the great importance of training the children for the future good of the church and of our country.

The Hon. David Richards was next introduced, who entertained us with a speech of some length, in his own happy style. The Hon. A. T. Cottrell and Capt. Rule also made short but good speeches. The exercises were interrupted with music.

The last but not the least feature of the occasion was a splendid repast for the inner man, consisting of all things good, with plenty of watermelons to close out with.
